Course Description
University of Utah Course Catalog Description: Labor-market economics, wage theory, labor mobility, human-resource development, unionism, collective bargaining, employment, and public policy.

This course surveys the market, institutional, and sociological factors that affect decisions about employment. Econ 3100 is a 3-credit course designated Quantitative Intensive. In accordance with this designation, students will develop the skills to interpret and critically assess labor issues presented in academic and popular publications using text, graphic, and algebraic expression. There are no prerequisites for this course.

Course Outcomes
At the end of the term students will be able to contextualize the operation of labor markets in both historical incidence and current events and contrast neoclassical and institutionalist approaches to understanding the employment relationship and wage determination in advanced capitalist economies. By the end of this course, students will be able to

- Identify the historical foundations of modern theories of production, including the work of Adam Smith, Karl Marx, and John Bates Clark
- Explain the decisions of workers and capitalists that provide the foundation for the labor supply and demand framework, and predict the wage and employment outcomes associated with these decisions in a competitive labor market
- Understand and interpret US labor market data including the monthly unemployment report from the Bureau of Labor Statistics
- Understand the historical, theoretical, and empirical context of current issues in labor market policy
Course Policies

1. Attendance Policy: Attendance will be recorded at all course meetings. Students should be present at the beginning of class to be counted present. The attendance record will be used to inform the final grade assigned if a student is borderline between two grades. Attendance can only help your grade.

2. Academic Honesty: Please note the definitions of cheating, misrepresenting one’s work, inappropriately collaborating, plagiarism, and fabrication or falsification of information from the University Utah Student Handbook, available here: https://regulations.utah.edu/academics/6-400.php

   "‘Plagiarism’ means the intentional unacknowledged use or incorporation of any other person’s work in, or as a basis for, one’s own work offered for academic consideration or credit or for public presentation. Plagiarism includes, but is not limited to, representing as one’s own, without attribution, any other individual’s words, phrasing, ideas, sequence of ideas, information or any other mode or content of expression."

   There are many types of plagiarism, all are serious offenses and will be treated according to the University of Utah rules and procedures for student academic conduct outlined in Student Code - Policy 6-400: Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities.

   Any incidents of cheating, misrepresentation, or plagiarism will result in a grade of zero for the assignment. All essays and assignments must be written in your own words with proper citations.

University Policies

1. The Americans with Disabilities Act. The University of Utah seeks to provide equal access to its programs, services, and activities for people with disabilities. If you will need accommodations in this class, reasonable prior notice needs to be given to the Center for Disability Services, 162 Olpin Union Building, (801) 581-5020. CDS will work with you and the instructor to make arrangements for accommodations. All written information in this course can be made available in an alternative format with prior notification to the Center for Disability Services.

2. Addressing Sexual Misconduct. Title IX makes it clear that violence and harassment based on sex and gender (which includes sexual orientation and gender identity/expression) is a civil rights offense subject to the same kinds of accountability and the same kinds of support applied to offenses against other protected categories such as race, national origin, color, religion, age, status as a person with a disability, veteran’s status or genetic information. If you or someone you know has been harassed or assaulted, you are encouraged to report it to the Title IX Coordinator in the Office of Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action, 135 Park Building, 801-581-8365, or the Office of the Dean of Students, 270 Union Building, 801-581-7066. For support and confidential consultation, contact the Center for Student Wellness, 426 SSB, 801-581-7776. To report to the police, contact the Department of Public Safety, 801-585-2677(COPS).

3. Learners of English as an Additional/Second Language. If you are an English language learner, please be aware of several resources on campus that will support you with your language and writing development. These resources include: the Writing Center (http://writingcenter.utah.edu/); the Writing Program (http://writing-program.utah.edu/); the English Language Institute (http://continue.utah.edu/eli/). Please let me know if there is any additional support you would like to discuss for this class.
Assignments
Assignments in this course include reading responses to historical, narrative, or case study material, problem sets that provide practice with the technical relationships in labor economics, short in-class assignments and presentations of assigned material, and weekly quizzes over assigned reading to be completed on Canvas. All assignments are intended to help you master the material and prepare for exams, and to improve the quality of in-class discussions.

Any assignment may include a combination of short answer/essay questions and analytical/graphical analysis. All graded assignments must be written in complete sentences. Assignments are due via email before class begins or at the beginning of class in hard copy.
