Small Town and Resort Community Planning (CMP 4960 and CMP 6960) uses the settings and contexts of a small town, a resort community, or both, for students to engage in an applied planning workshop. This workshop is designed to provide all students with a variety of opportunities to perform real and meaningful planning activities for these communities. Using the community-based workshop approach, supported by lectures to facilitate student understandings, this course requires all students to be directly involved with a community on a planning initiative to provide a valuable planning deliverable back to the community by semester’s end.
