This class explores and investigates the organization and distribution of global political systems, including their impact on other spatial components of modern societies and cultures.

The overriding course goal is to provide you with the opportunity to expand your awareness, understanding, and appreciation of our multifaceted world - its global political divisions, organization, and systems.